

We are looking for candidates from developing countries to study sustainable design at postgraduate level in the Faculty of Art, Design & Architecture at Kingston University.

The Human Development Index (HDI) is a comparative measure of life expectancy, literacy, education, and standard of living for countries worldwide. It is a standard means of measuring well-being, especially child welfare. It is used to determine and indicate whether a country is a developed, developing, or underdeveloped country and also to measure the impact of economic policies on quality of life. The Audi Design Foundation and Kingston University welcomes applications from outside of the top 30 HDI countries. This excluded nationals from the following countries:
